

SUSAN ROBERTS
Alberta Food Matters

Susan Roberts lives in Jasper, Alberta, and is a Prince Edward Islander by birth. She has a Master of Education and is a Registered Dietitian. Susan is semi-retired from her 20 years love of work across Canada and the United States in asset-based community development, as a community coach and facilitator and owner of Community Building Resources.

Over the last 15 years, Susan has focused her energy in being a strong sustainable food systems and food sovereignty advocate in Canada and Alberta. Susan is the Board Chair of the Non Profit Organization, Alberta Food Matters (AFM), through which the Growing Food Security in Alberta Network operates. AFM reaches out to Albertans sharing the message of “the real value – of real food for everyone”.

Susan is an avid urban and country gardener and finds joy in cycling our beautiful country, skiing, hiking, and getting her hands dirty. Bottom line – have fun and just do it!

TONY GERACI
Cafeteria Man

Anthony (Tony) Geraci is a chef and Food Service Consultant. He is the former Director of Food and Nutrition for Con-Val School District, Baltimore City Public Schools, Memphis City and Shelby County Public Schools.

During his time in Baltimore, Tony worked with local food service directors to transform the way school breakfast and lunch programs were sourced, prepared and delivered. The film "Cafeteria Man" is the story of Tony's quest to bring healthy, nutritious food to thousands of school children. As a result of his innovations in Baltimore, Tony was voted by his peers as "Foodservice Director of the Year" for 2009.

Currently, Tony is using his abundant energy, enthusiasm and expertise as the Executive Director of the Cornucopia Project in New Hampshire to assist school districts and communities in their quest to educate and provide better quality food for children in a fiscally responsible and accessible manner.
