

Every school needs supportive parents

The very best combination is when parents and teachers work together. This allows the best possible education to be provided to our students and ensures their success in education and career choices.

One of the ways to be a supportive parent is by joining your local Home and School Association.

Information is available to help organize an effective parent / teacher voice in your school.

PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT

AT THE INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR HIGH LEVELS

WHY IS PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT IMPORTANT AT THE INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR HIGH LEVELS?

SO MANY CHOICES...

This is an extremely important time in your student's life. Decisions on what courses to take, extra curricular activities, what kinds of friends they will have, what careers they will choose all vie for their attention. Guidance for good decision making is critical. You, their parents, are one of the primary sources they turn to and you need good information to give to them.

YOU HAVE A VOICE!

DID YOU KNOW...

When your youth enters high school they will be only half way through their formal education if they decide to go on to university..

SO MUCH TIME...

Your child spends....15% of their waking hours in school. 85% of their day is spent at home and in the community. Work together to achieve a positive home environment and it will help them in their school life.

PEER PRESSURE...

Young adults are influenced by their friends. Peer pressure can be helpful or detrimental to their learning, self-esteem and to the behaviours they participate in. Make it a point to know who they spend their time with, Facebook with and who it is they look up to. This will help you help them through this challenging time of life.

Make your voice heard through being a member of Home and School!
